Finding no search item for "net neutrality", I chose this available topic. I favor universal health care support, and I also favor net neutrality. Regarding net neutrality, I could support separate internet tracks and rates for large downloads such as movies, but separating wireless from other internet uses violates the intent of net neutrality. It is the wrong policy, contrary to public interest. The internet was developed by the US government at taxpayer expense and it belongs to the public, not to pipe owners. Period. If protecting the public interest and ownership requires reclassifying broadband or otherwise amending FCC rules, then do it without delay. The public is not served by conflicting and confusing news reports about Google/Verizon deals to divvy up the internet amid FCC silence. This can be remedied only by prompt and effective action by the FCC.
